Obituary

The death occurred of Mrs. Edith Grace Milfin at the Holy Cross hospital, Calgary, on Thursday March 24, after a short illness. The deceased was born in Chatham Ontario and moved to Calgary in 1920 where she was married to Mr. S. O. Milfin. In 1925 she moved with her husband to Champion where they farmed and where Mr. Milfin was engaged in carpentry.

During her residence here she had taken an active part in everything pertaining to the welfare of the town and district and for a year was president of the Women's Institute. She also was a member of the Ladies Aid. In every way her demise in the prime of life is very widely regretted and mourned. In addition to her husband she leaves her parents, two sisters and one brother.

The funeral took place in Lethbridge from Martin's funeral parlors.

Her family have the sincere sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Prophet of the Slump Sees Uptrend Ahead

While the world does not altogether just implicit faith in the weather man, it always appreciates his promise of the kind of weather it wants. When, after a long spell of bitter cold, he prophesies that tomorrow will be "bright with slightly raising temperature," it is felt that the weather man has his good points.

In the same way, the latest announcement of Roger W. Babson falls on appreciative ears. The man who foretold the depression, now states quite definitely that the depression is in retreat. He does not, it is true, prophesy an immediate return to prosperity, but he asserts that the present year will see an irregular movement to higher levels, and that fundamentally better times are now definitely assured.

The robin's song and the flowers that bloom in the spring are not more welcome than Mr. Babson's latest sage. He is the dove bringing the green leaves of hope to a world that has been marooned on the flood of depression.

Sound Conditions of Canadian Banks

Canada has cause for pride and gratification over the manner in which her financial institutions have stood up under the strain of economic depression. There have been no bank failures and there will be none.

The banking system of the country is built upon a solid foundation and conducted on sound, sane lines. Just how important this fact is to the people becomes more apparent when banking conditions in the neighboring U. S. A. are examined. There, more than 6,500 banks have failed in the past ten years, over 8,000 of them since the present crisis began two years ago. These banks carried total deposits of $2,580,000,000. These losses and hardships entailed by these failures can readily be imagined.

Canadians are indeed fortunate in that not one dollar of the money of depositors in Canadian banks has been lost during this period of depression. The banks of this country are sometimes criticised as being too conservative in their policies, but the record of failures in other countries indicates that the course pursued by Canadian bankers has been justified.

Flour Week—"Dough" for Everybody

It is said that the elevators are full, and to move the contents will improve business. So what would be wrong in having a "flour week"? Wives would feed as on pies, cakes, puddings and the old stand-by known as jam roly poly. Dimples in stew are great, and even if we get lots of indigestion, we would be sure of lots of dough that week. What is better than getting your teeth into a deep apple pie after the style of the claws of a steam shovel, biting out a foundation? Doesn't the mention of it make your mouth water?

If every home used flour for one week in making the above goodies, we would soon use up a great deal of the wheat in the elevators. We hope to see advertised soon a week called, "Say Is With Flour." Dough in the pocket or in the tummy gives you a different feeling.

A farmer says that this spring he will use dairy butter to grease his farm implements, instead of paying thirty cents per pound for axle grease. All he can get for his butter is ten cents per pound. Finding that it is equally effective as a lubricant as the axle grease he formerly bought, he will be putting the butter to good use.

Following his recent "Barkie is willin'" announcement, Alfred E. Smith's chances for the Presidency of the United States are being weighed in the political scale. Indications are that he would be in better position to make the race if he removed his foot from the brass rail.

Publicity is a newspaper's stock in trade, and it is to the individual's and to the community's interest just as much as to the interest of the newspaper itself to see that a newspaper is adequately recompensed for publicity matters, because if a newspaper is properly supported, it is able to render broader and more effective service to the community.

Free publicity should be no more expected from a newspaper than free advice from a lawyer, or free medical advice from a physician. Most publishers are always willing to go more than half way in giving publicity to deserving causes; but it takes money to conduct a newspaper and its advertising space is its chief source of revenue.

Increased Population For Canada Will Be Necessary Soon To Help Liquidate National Obligations

To those who think superficially, it may seem out of place, in the presence of considerable unemployment throughout the Dominion, to talk of plans for increasing the population of the country by means of selected immigration. Nothing is clearer, however, than the fact that Canada, with its immense area and vast natural resources, cannot hope to pay its way or to carry its immense established overhead without more shoulders upon which to place the burden. The Dominion has a financial, industrial and railway plant which equips it to care for twenty or twenty-five million people, instead of only ten million as at present.

If we could secure additional population by gradual means and establish it on a sound economic basis, our national troubles would disappear. A public debt of $2,300,000,000, a huge railway debt and the existing load of provincial and municipal debts would no longer be beyond our capacity. With several million people we could pay the interest easily and gradually liquidate the principal. The railways would have more people and goods to carry, their deficits would be turned into surpluses, and our industries would have larger domestic markets for their products. Our paper and pulp mill establishments would no longer be too large for the country.

It is quite clear that Canada's greatest need is more people for its vacant spaces, more farmers to till its unoccupied lands, more producers and more consumers of all kinds. The inauguration of an adequate immigration policy must, of course, await the return of normal world conditions, so that there will be adequate markets abroad for our products, and particularly for the primary products of farm, land, forest and fishery. If the Imperial Conference, to be held at Ottawa next July, proves the success that is anticipated its decisions will in time go far to supply such markets. In any event we are glad to note that, in the words of Mr. H. J. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions in the British Parliament, the question of intra-empire migration is to form one of the important subjects of discussion at Ottawa.

There is reason for satisfaction that the Canadian Government takes the same view, for as Hon. W. A. Gordon, Acting Minister of Immigration, said at Ottawa recently, "Whether we like it or not, we must get over to the positive side of immigration because we must have more people if we hope to pay off our debt with which ten million people are loaded at present by reason of the railway problem on our hands." Another important consideration is the need of bringing in more British people of the right kind to strengthen and stabilize the Anglo-Saxon elements in our population and to buttress the British sentiments of the country.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Not As Pictured

Members of British House of Lords Are Study Patriots

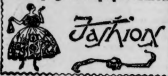

The Prince of Wales has unveiled a Memorial in the Royal Gallery of the House of Lords to 245 peers who lost their lives in the World War. These figures are startling. They represent fully one-third of the total membership. Just think what one community would have sacrificed of the population to be killed or die of wounds.

Prior to the war the Lords were in disfavor with a large section of the British people. Mr. Lloyd George had worked up a terrific agitation against them. He virtually pictured them as a lot of blood-suckers living on the people and grinding the masses down in poverty.

But in fact the peers were, and are, about the sturdiest patriots in the British constitution. By their hereditary rights of rulership, public service is one of the first things they enter the army or the navy. There is scarcely any other occupation for a peer's son. They enter the services as a matter of course. And when the time comes the officers are right in the thick of things.

Much of Britain's finest blood, peers and the sons of peers, the latter numbering in thousands, is spilled in defense of Britain whenever and wherever the army or navy are engaged.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Place Families On Farms

Plan To Move Destitute Residents From Cities To Farms In Saskatchewan

Depending on agreement with the Federal Government, the provincial government, in conjunction with the three larger cities, in Saskatchewan, will place 1,200 families on farms in northern Saskatchewan, and there is the possibility that this scheme will extend to take in 2,000 families throughout the province. The present plan is that the provincial government find the land under its land settlement scheme and the provincial federal and municipal governments each bear a third of the cost of equipping the families to take up their farm duties.

It is understood that each family will be given stock and equipment up to a value of $300, that suitable land will be found for them, buildings erected from timber drawn from the farm or adjacent territory and that the farms will be under the supervision of an inspector of the nature resources department. Scheme is understood to have been advanced by deputations from Moose Jaw, Saskatoon and Regina, and to have been favorably received by the cabinet.

It is understood that the scheme will place families in Regina, 400 in Saskatoon and 200 in Moose Jaw, all reported to be ready to take up farming under this scheme.

The Field Force Counts

Attention Is Called To An Important Phase Of Honey Production

C. B. Goodenham, Dominion Agriculture for the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, calls attention to an important phase of honey production in the following statement: "The amount of honey which a colony can gather is largely dependent upon the number of bees that colony can release for field work during the period of honey flow and upon the ability of the beekeeper to keep this force contentedly working. The total number of bees within the colony is not a reliable index as to its ability to gather honey, because it is only those bees that are above a definite age that are effective as nectar gatherers and it is the number of bees in this force that counts in the production of surplus honey and furthermore, the strength of this force is dependent upon the care given the colony during the previous eleven months and not upon spring management alone. So many beekeepers fondly hope."

Color Attracts Butterflies

Tests Show Green Was Not At All Popular

It is the color, and not the odor, of flowers that attracts butterflies, says a popular Mechanic Magazine. This was proved in tests in Germany where paper flowers were scattered in a garden with blooming ones. It was found that the insects settled indiscriminately on both kinds to seek food. The experiment further revealed that different species displayed preferences for special colors, some yellow and blue, others blue and purple, but none of them was attracted by green.

The 84-year-old soldier-President is shown as he reviewed the Guards Regiment of Berlin on the Moabit Field. The Cutworm Threat

Warning Issued To Avoid Potential Losses From Pest This Year

With a view to enabling farmers in Saskatchewan and Alberta to avoid or reduce potential losses from cutworm damage this year, Arthur Gibson, Dominion entomologist, has issued a special notice in which particular attention is called to the fact that in those areas in which severe losses on account of damage by the pale western cutworm were caused in 1931, even greater losses may be expected in 1932, providing weather conditions are average, and that even a very wet spring will only partially check the immediate ravages.

Any fields which were undisturbed so that the soil surface was caked or crusted from August 1 to September 1, 1931, providing weather conditions are average, and that even a very wet spring will only partially check the immediate ravages.

In any case where there is doubt as to a field being free of cutworms a test should be made using an indicator strip of wheat diagonally across the field. This indicator strip should be seeded as early as it is possible to get a drill on the land and before regular seeding starts. Why then the indicator strip is sufficient, and such a diagonal strip will give a fair example of the condition of the field, as weather conditions which will bring this grain to a height of about five inches will also hatch many of the eggs.

If on examination from 19 to 15 plants per square yard show injury the field should not be seeded. Under normal conditions this strip will show whether or not cutworms are present by the end of the first week of May, or earlier, and seeding operations should be governed accordingly.

No field should be seeded to any crop, especially flax, where cutworm damage is evident so long as there are cutworms present and active. Detailed information as to the cutworm situation and its control can be secured by writing to the Dominion entomological laboratories, Treasbank, Manitoba, Indian Head and Assiniboia in Saskatchewan; Lethbridge or Morris in Alberta, or to the provincial departments of Agriculture at Regina or Edmonton.

What Not Included

In Germany's Super Tariff Against Goods From Canada

The Reichsanzeiger, official gazette of the German Government, publishes a decree authorizing the finance minister to impose the so-called super-tariff against goods from Canada, increasing existing duties 100 per cent as from April 1.

Goods specifically mentioned in the decree were: Fresh, dried and tinned fruits, fish, lobsters, oysters, turtles, flour, butter, paper, cardboard, machinery, shoes, certain kinds of machinery. Canadian wheat was not included in the list.

The decree provided that the duties can be suspended for six months, providing Canada at once enters into negotiations with Germany for the conclusion of a commercial treaty.

Germany is one of the few countries in central Europe where commercial treaties have never concluded a commercial treaty. Canada has been one of the few countries in central Europe where commercial treaties have never concluded a commercial treaty. Canadian Humor

Type By Itself And Is Essentially Good-Natured

Written Lancelot Stevens as a type differs from American and English alike. Canadian humor is "Appraisal of Canadian Literature." There is not the characteristic exaggeration of the one nor the characteristic restraint of the other. There is a closer affinity perhaps with the Scottish type as exemplified by Burns, with his whimsicality and sympathetic indulgence, but the Canadian style is more downright, and deals more with action, less with character. It is a hearty sense of fun, arising from genuine joy of life, including an eye for the absurd which is latent in the commonplace. It is essentially good-natured. Steering a perilous course between crudity and sentimentality, it usually contrives to avoid both, by sheer force of simple, sunny cheerfulness.

Beans Make Good Crop

Interest In Growing Beans In Western Canada Is Increasing

The Dominion Experimental Station at Lethbridge, Alberta, reports a decided increase in interest in the growing of field beans in western Canada, particularly in irrigated areas. Hereafter practically all the beans used in cities and towns of western Canada have been imported from Japan, the United States and Eastern Canada. A point like Lethbridge, for example, uses about 100,000 pounds each annually. Beans require a long season to mature and should be planted sufficiently early to ensure against loss from fall frosts. The small white varieties are best-suited to market and it is also pointed out that too rich land, too heavy irrigation, too thin seeding, and too wide spacing of rows all tend to prolong the period of growth.

Students of arboriculture of late years in the west have taken seriously to the observation of growth of trees, since there appears to be positive proof that tree growth depends on the annual precipitation.

Experts in the study of trees can tell by the number of radial rings in the center of the tree. Once that part of the science was established, observation was directed to the width of the rings marking each year's growth.

In some large trees where the rings were well defined, it was observed that growth was not the same every year, and it was finally agreed by students that there was a reason for some rings being wider than others. This reason is given as either lack of, or sufficient moisture.

First, the observations were made on trees growing in depressions where sufficient moisture was available all through the growing period. It was found that rings in such trees were almost uniform, and as the tree aged in years, the rings became perceptibly more uniform.

This established the principle that old trees do not respond in the same manner to nutrition and moisture as young trees.

Trees on uplands where drought would affect them were then studied. It was found that during periods of drought the rings were less in width than the rings during the years of plenty of moisture. Thus students were able to record years of drought in the country without having any prior meteorological records.

In the observations made by L. B. Powell, formerly of Wyoming, and now of Regina, sections of trees were taken in several parts of Saskatchewan where the years 1794, 1798, 1800, 1820 and 1831 were plainly shown as dry years. White spruce, ash, elm, and poplar cross sections clearly indicate this.

Such progress has been made in the study of the trees that the age of trees cut down hundreds, even thousands of years ago, can be told from the timber.

One specimen in this science, A. E. Douglas, of Tucson, Arizona, was able by referring to his chart on the tree to take timber from the abandoned cliff dwellings in New Mexico and tell the years in which these timbers were cut thousands of years ago.

Last year the Rockefeller Foundation for his research work and his contribution to the science of arboriculture. There are of course other agencies that must be taken into consideration in measuring the growth of trees. There is sunshine, shade, climatic conditions such as extreme cold and scorching heat. All these have some effect on the growing trees in certain sections of the country.

One peculiar condition exists in British Columbia. There the width of the rings of the trees are almost uniform, showing that plenty of moisture and an equable climate prevail. The growth of the trees. There also are trees which show that as comes on, the rings grow less in width—Regina Leader.

New Diving Apparatus

A deep-sea diving apparatus, which will allow exploration and work at depths of 10,000 feet and more, has been invented in Germany. The contrivance is shaped like an egg and its metal shell is made to resist enormous water pressure by automatically adjusting the interior air pressure through the vaporization of liquid air.

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD —With Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help. Castoria is just the kind of gentle preparation made especially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name:

All Dressed Up

Down in certain mountain regions of the American South, playboys go barefoot most of the time. There is a story told about a young couple who were preparing to go to a party in a nearby hamlet. The husband having finished dressing stood aside in order that his wife might inspect him. Surveying him from head to foot, she said: "I don't see why you have to go to parties, Elmer. You look good in shoes."

Weakness Of Co-Education

Professor Saye, Co-Eds Have Fatal Attraction For Men. Although Dr. Hamilton Eyle, principal of Queen's University, is inclined to agree with the opinion that women are a "sort of nuisance around a university," he declared emphatically that Queen's did not contemplate the erection of any barriers to co-education.

In fact, he said, some of the best students at the university are co-eds. However, he wished they did not have such a fatal attraction to the men students.

"When the students leave the classroom following a lecture," he explained, "instead of discussing some of the points in the lecture they have just heard, they promptly pair off and either discuss highlights of the party they attended the night before or make dates for other meetings."

Where Taxes Are Taxes

British Taxes Grit and Pay to Cancel Debts

British taxpayers, faced by an all-time record of taxation burden, grin and pay. They paid in January and February this year, $200,000,000 more than in the same months last year. At that rate the huge 1931 British debt will be wiped clean by Jan. 1, 1933, and Britain will be out of the red of despair. And if you think the British taxpayer hasn't paid just remember that a married man with a $3,000 income pays $75 income tax, and an $18,000 tax on a $50,000 income.

Beginning in 1883, Mr. McKay drove an express wagon. He became a freight brakeman in 1885 on the Northern Pacific and was promoted to the position of conductor in 1889. In 1890 he was appointed trainmaster of Winnipeg, and a year later at Souris. Back to Winnipeg in 1911, he took over the duties of acting superintendent of terminals, and in 1912 reached the position of superintendent at Revelstoke. Fighting snowsides in the Rockies with success, he was rewarded with the less hazardous position of superintendent at Saskatoon, where he served from 1917 to 1929, the year in which he became general agent with headquarters at Winnipeg.

How Much Does One See

Quite Possible To View Accident and Miss Intimate Details. There are occasions when evidence is given in accident cases where a witness is pressed for more detail, and we can recall several occasions where the suggestion has been made that said witness was told to take that place. It is quite possible that a witness may view an accident and yet fail to see many of the intimate details.

In a general way the witness does see the accident, but when it comes to answering all the questions which are certain to be asked it will be found that the power of observation has its limitations. How far was the car from the victim when the witness first looked? At what rate was the car travelling? How far did the car go before stopping? When were the brakes applied? It is when specific questions are asked that the witness begins to realize that although he saw the accident, there were many things he did not observe.
